ZHANG Xinsheng
AUSF President

My dear fellow members, dear university students, it is always my most exciting moment to meet you all here at the end of each year and to share with you the achievements AUSF made every year.

First, I would like to share with one of my experiences as a prelude of my yearly message, which was quite encouraging. This May, during the Shenzhen FISU (International University Sports Federation) Executive Committee meeting, some of my FISU colleagues found me and asked for some AUSF magazines, who highly praised the quality of AUSF magazine. Also the Secretariat staffs told me that AUSF magazine were sent out during AUSF activities, which attracted the great interest of university leaders, faculty members, National University Sports Federation executives, coaches, especially that of students. Therefore, we can say that AUSF Yearly Magazine should be a quite valuable tool for information sharing. I am so glad to see what we are doing is moving forward in the right direction. Also, I would like to encourage all of you to give us some comments and suggestions on how to make this Magazine more helpful to you and more attractive.

Year 2010 was a special and important year for AUSF. The 6th AUSF General Assembly meeting was successfully held and new Executive Committee was elected, which was conducted in a transparent, democratic and professional way, witnessed by 14 FISU EC members including FISU President KILLIAN George. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to thank my colleagues from FISU. Thank you for coming from afar to show your support. During the meeting, Bahrain, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia became the members of AUSF and the number of AUSF members was increased to 35. Besides that, 4 championships were held under the aegis of AUSF in 2010, including Taekwondo in U.A.E., Table Tennis in Hong Kong, Water Polo in Singapore and Men's Basketball in Chinese Taipei. It was the first time for AUSF championships held in Western Asia.

We really feel glad to see that our overall program and our image continue to grow. The new Executive Committee will strive to work for the development of AUSF. Finally, I would like to thank you for your continued service to the university students of the Asia, even the world.

Best Regards

George E. Killian

FISU President

Dear AUSF members,

Each year I look forward to receiving an invitation from the leadership of AUSF to pen a short message to all of my colleagues (friends) that make up the Asian University Sport Federation. This fall was no exception, my invitation has just arrived.

This past September I had the extreme pleasure of attending your AUSF General Assembly held in Shenzhen, China, the site of our 2011 Summer Universiade.

As your President my attendance at your General Assembly is always for me one of the highlights of my year. Since my first appearance many years ago to your General Assembly I continued to be overwhelmed by the continued successful program you have developed since my visit of long ago.

The success of your FISU Continental Organization has been due to the leadership of your President, Dr. Xinsheng Zhang and his professional staff of officers.

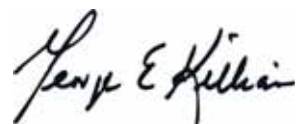

Your regional organization program has served as the beacon for all of the other FISU Continental organizations as it shines its light over the entire Asian Continent. It has allowed each and every country within the Asian University Sport Federation to enjoy the fruits of membership with FISU and the AUSF.

As the New Year (2011) appears on the horizon I look forward to continuing to work with you as you develop your new and exciting plans for the benefit of the entire membership of the Asian University Sport Federation.

On behalf of the entire FISU Family I extend our congratulations and best wishes to all of the members of AUSF as you look forward to a robust year in 2011.

Best personal regards

Sincerely

Executive Committee Meeting

The first AUSF EC meeting in 2010 was held in Shenzhen, China on 12th May. Except for Mr. IGARASHI Hisato, the Assessor, who asked for a leave due to the inspection visit to the competition venues of 26th Shenzhen Summer Universiade, the others, including the President ZHANG Xinsheng (CHN), Senior Vice President CHUNG Tong Gu (KOR), Vice Presidents AL-HAI Omar A. (UAE) and LEE Tien Rein (TPE), Secretary General CHOW Kenny (HKG), Vice Secretary General XUE Yanqing (CHN), Treasurer SEETOW Cheng Fave (SIN), Assessors JARGALSAIKHAN Dorjsuren (MGL), PRAYOONPAT Preecha (THA), and TALEBPOUR Mahdi (IRI), Auditors HA Woong Yong (KOR) and ZAKIRYANOV Kairat (KAZ) were all present for this meeting. Mr. BERGH Stefan, FISU Vice President and Chair of CDSU was invited to this meeting, who shared with AUSF EC members the development stages of FISU and FISU's policy on the affiliation of continental associations.

The main issue of this meeting was on AUSF activities. First, the EC members listened to the final report from the Organizing Committee of AUCs 2009 respectively, including Men's Football, Canoeing, Women's Volleyball and Bridge. Mr. SEETOW

Cheng Fave, on behalf of the Organizing Committee of Canoeing championship, introduced two efficient ways of team invitation, that is, to send invitation to Asian universities directly and via Asian Sports Federation to invite teams, which gave some enlightenment to other OCs. Also the OC of AUCs 2010 made a short progress report, including Table Tennis (July, Hong Kong), Water polo (July, Singapore) and Men's Basketball (Oct., Chinese Taipei). The main concern of each OC was still on the team invitation. Therefore, President ZHANG encouraged the Chairs and Vice Chairs of 5 sub-regions to exert themselves to make more and more students in his or her sub-region involved in AUSF activities.

6th General Assembly Meeting

Board Members were Newly Elected

The 6th AUSF General Assembly meeting took place on 22nd Sep. 2010 in Shenzhen, China, which was also the Chinese traditional Mid-Autumn Festival, a big day for family get-together.

Development was still the key word for this meeting that brought together delegates from 24 countries or regions, among which 21 were AUSF members and another 3 ones, namely Bahrain, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, expected to be affiliated to AUSF. Also, FISU President KILLIAN George, 1st Vice President GALLIEN Claude-Louis, FISU Vice President and CDSU Chair BERGH Stefan, FISU Secretary General SAINTROND Eric and some other FISU EC members were present and reviewed the remarkable progress and fast development of AUSF since 2004, together with AUSF fellow members. The main issue of this meeting was to elect new AUSF Executive Committee 2010 – 2016.

AUSF President ZHANG Xinsheng first took the floor to deliver his welcome address. He expressed his gratitude to FISU EC family, under the leadership of President KILLIAN, who came all the way to show their care and concern and his gratitude to China University Sports Federation, as well as the LOC of Shenzhen 26th Universiade for their support to host the GA meeting. Also, He thanked the Chairs and Vice Chairs from 5 sub-regions of Asia for their effective liaison job between AUSF members and AUSF Secretariat and thanked AUSF members for their participation and involvement in AUSF activities.

Finally, he gave his heartfelt thanks to the AUSF Secretariat staffs for their hard work. After that, he concisely reviewed the history of AUSF. He said the year of 2003 was a landmark year in the history of AUSF, when AUSF started to show its vigor and growth. AUSF had contributed to the awareness & mutual understanding among university students in Asia and AUSF will keep on doing that. He concluded his welcome remark by wishing the GA meeting a memorable and remarkable one in the AUSF history.

Invited by President ZHANG Xinsheng, FISU President KILLIAN George highly praised the achievement AUSF made in the past few years. He said AUSF was along with Europe, the two capable federations of such kind, which was well-organized, acting around a professional group of people, striving to promote what FISU already had began. He appreciated AUSF for what it had done, which he thought should be the role model of other Continental Federations.

FISU Vice President and CDSU Chair BERGH Stefan in his address went through the history of CFs under the aegis of FISU. FISU had adopted the continental concept for 20-30 years. However, it had shown its vigor and stability only in the last 8-10 years. In 2001, during the FISU GA meeting, 80 countries showed up, all expressing diverse expectations for FISU development, which arouse FISU EC's consideration on the issue. From 2001 to 2007, the FISU EC members, as a team, made strategic plan for the continental development, which included carrying out the idea of "Associate Concept" – 5 Continental Federations, lying behind which was the strong belief of the role Continental Federations could play to strengthen FISU and meet the major needs of its member states and regions. He remarked that in the same spirit, AUSF highlighted sub-region system, which aimed to reach out to more people in a closer range. He was glad to see that AUSF had shown its sustainability by improving both the quality and the quantity of its championships and activities. He expressed again the willingness of FISU to strengthen financially the Continental Federations with the mutual goal of promoting university sports. FISU was attracting more international organizations for further cooperation. Though the expectation had been high, he was confident that AUSF would meet it. At last, he expressed his sincere congratulations to AUSF for all the deeds.

Finally, Mr. LIANG Daoxing, Vice President of the Executive Board & Director-General of the Executive Office of the Organizing Committee for the 26th Shenzhen Summer Universiade made a speech. By taking this opportunity, he recalled that this May, both FISU & AUSF held EC meetings in Shenzhen, when the delegates debriefed the preparatory work of the Shenzhen Universiade. He said that under the guidance of FISU and FUSC, all the preparation had run smoothly thereafter. He then concisely introduced the list of things that had been done with the Shenzhen Universiade. He expressed his profound gratitude to FISU, AUSF and FUSC for their assistance and support. At last, he wished the AUSF GA meeting a complete success and swore to give full support for this event.

After the speeches, the meeting moved forward according to the Agenda. President ZHANG Xinsheng was the first to tackle the job. His reports was divided into four parts, including the Background, What we have done, What needs to be improved and AUSF tasks. In the "Background" part, he analysed the positive and negative factors in the fields of economy, culture and climate, which would affect the development of AUSF. Regarding the part of "What we have done", he said by following FISU model, AUSF had developed itself in dividing into 5 sub-regions. AUSF would develop a more efficient mechanism to cooperate with these sub-regional groups (eg. ASEAN University Sports Council) to enlarge its influence. As for the part of "What needs to be improved", he highlighted the importance of efficient communication. He stressed on listening to different voices and opinions. He asked all members to act in accordance to the slogan of "To understand, to listen and to respond". He listed those aspects to be further improved: imbalance of development, insufficient coverage of promotional materials, lack of build-up of brand as well as lack of income and sponsorship. For "AUSF Tasks", he summed up by listing five tasks for AUSF, that is, development in three aspects: membership; sport events; mass communication (website, magazine, regional liaison officer, etc.); contribution to the less-developed countries, FISU and other Continental Federations; professionalism; reform and team building (to carry out the decisions made by the EC and to promote harmony). In his report, President ZHANG Xinsheng charted a new direction for AUSF, which made the AUSF jobs more concrete.

In his report to the meeting, Secretary General CHOW Kenny highlighted the achievement of AUSF in the fields of administration, communication, membership, marketing and activities. Our Treasurer SEETOW Cheng Fave explained the Income and Expenditure of AUSF and he would, together with Auditors, work out the Financial Regulation of AUSF, in the hope to make management and transaction of AUSF financial assets more transparent.

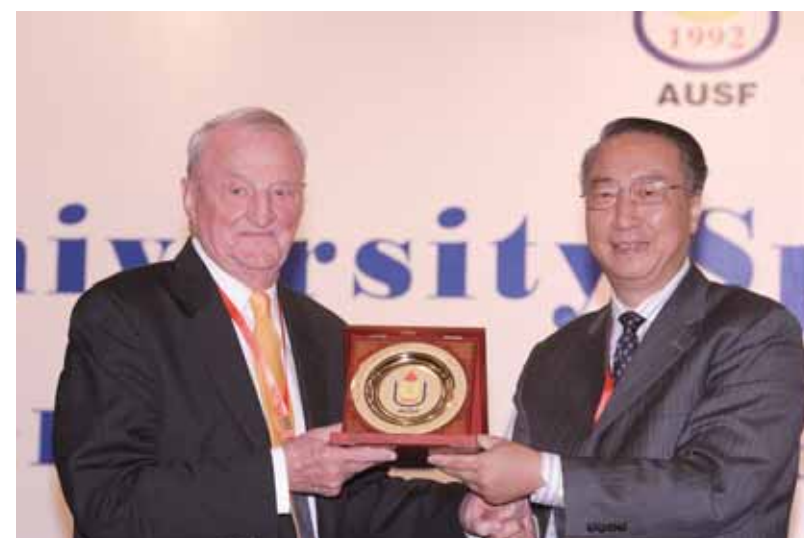

The final report of AUSF activities 2010 including Taekwondo Championship in U.A.E., Table Tennis Championship in Hong Kong and Water Polo Championship in Singapore were made. Before that, a slide show of AUSF championships from 2008-2010 were made. Since the proposal of hosting 1st Asian University Games, in conjunction with other regional comprehensive games was made, AUSF EC members have been working on that, especially AUSF Treasurer SEETOW Cheng Fave. And the President and Secretary General of ASEAN University Sports Council (AUSC) were invited to this meeting and made a presentation on AUSC, who expressed the willingness to seek common ground in hosting continental sport event with AUSF. Both sides regarded the cooperation as a good start and expressed the willingness to work out a collaboration mechanism, which could be carried out in various formulas, whether bilateral or multilateral, whether on a nation basis, or on a university basis.

After the regular things, the election of the Executive Committee was conducted. Before that Bahrain, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia were affiliated as new members of AUSF and were granted with voting rights. In this way, the valid vote was 24. In the hope to make the voting more transparent, a Scrutineer Committee was nominated, Chaired by Dr. CHUNG Tong Gu from Korea, the AUSF former Senior Vice President, assisted by Mr. SHEN Zhen from China & Dr. TAHA A. Al-Jaser from Kuwait. Finally, Mr. ZHANG Xinsheng (CHN), the outgoing President was successfully re-elected.

Mr. AL HAI Omar A. (UAE), highly acknowledged for his contribution in reaching out to the new territory, was promoted to the position of senior Vice President. The two pools of Vice Presidents had proved to be highly competitive. After a lengthy and hard voting session, the posts were given to two new faces: Mr. CHEN Kunning (TPE) and Mr. CHANG Hosung (KOR). Mr. SEETOW Cheng-Fave (SIN) was reelected as the Treasurer; Mr. CHOW Kenny (HKG) as the Secretary General; Mr. XUE Yanqing (CHN) as the Vice Secretary General, and Mr. HA Woong-Yong (KOR) as the Auditor. The four Assessors came to Mr. JARGALSAIKHAN Dorjsuren (MGL), Mr. IGARASHI Hisato (JPN), Mr. TALEBPOUR Mahdi (IRI) and Mr. PRAYOONPAT Preecha (THA).

Executive Committee Meeting

The First Meeting of New Elected Board

On 23th Sep. 2010, the newly elected AUSF Executive Committee had its first meeting.

As usual, the meeting started with President's report. In his report, President ZHANG Xinsheng congratulated all the board members for being elected. Secondly, He raised some topics to be covered at this meeting: the biennial plan and strategic plan, mechanism of program implementation, modification of adopted documents at the previous General Assembly meeting. He said that the core task of AUSF should be the build-up of a democratic system and the core competence (comparative and competitive advantage), for which, AUSF should create a brand-name for itself, focusing on the most popular sports as major product and collaborate with the corporate sector. Until now, AUSF did not have a bidding system for its championships, and for most of its activities, had not achieved financial balance. In this regard, AUSF should learn from EUSA, which had set up bidding system in its championships. He also highlighted a trend in universities, which put more and more emphasis on sports. AUSF should take advantage of this trend and get university leaders involved in its activities, such as forums to motivate active participation in AUSF events. University sports, at the same time, needed to get more students involved. Besides, corporate sector should also be activated. These are of vital importance to AUSF in developing the key products. Finally, he stressed that the goal of AUSF, further more, lied in "team spirit".

A proposal was made to invite Dr. ZAKIRTANOV Kairat from Kazakhstan, the former Auditor, to take up the position of Auditor, because Auditor's post was not filled in the General Election, which was approved unanimously.

Also a proposal was made, that is, to make face-to-face communication as the complement to electronic communication, in the hope to make the communication among liaison job between the Chair of each sub-region and the members in each sub-region more efficient and fruitful, which can help AUSF to really know the difficulties and need of each individual member via the Chair. AUSF will take active measures to help each member out.

Student Sports Federation of the Republic of Kazakhstan

Since its independence, great attention has been given to the development of student sport in Kazakhstan. In 1992 National Students Sports Union was established. Teams of students in Kazakhstan began to participate in the World Universiades since 1993. Since 2001, for the development of mass student sports, universities began to operate sports clubs, and the National Students Sports Union was transformed into the National Student Sports Union, which was affiliated to the International University Sports Federation (FISU) in the same year. However, further development of student sports in terms of increasing competition in the global arena, required more flexible forms and systems of governance. In this regard, by the initiative of the Kazakh Academy of Sport and Tourism, the National Universities Sports Association in 2006 was transformed into the Student Sports Federation of Kazakhstan, which could independently solve all the pressing problems of student sport. The Federation was registered by the Department of Justice of Almaty as a legal entity.

Student Sports Federation of Kazakhstan conducts its activities in cooperation with associations established at universities for basic kinds of sports (wrestling, boxing, basketball, volleyball, etc.). Rectors of these universities were elected as presidents of above mentioned sport associations.

Federation organizes the work of sports clubs in universities, provides training and participation of students at the Republican Universiade, completes prefabricated student teams to participate at the World Universiade and World Championships among students, organizes training coaching staff, providing training teams of students, assists in creating conditions for teaching of talented in sports young people in universities of Kazakhstan. By the initiative of the Federation was made an amendment on Law "On Education" in accordance with which the young athlete, who took a prize at the World Championships of Kazakhstan, Asia, Europe gets the right for admission without any test to college with a degree in Physical Education and Sports. Earlier the students - winners of the World Student did not receive any remuneration, although its rank, the World Universiade is the second largest multi-sport event after the Olympic Games. Mr. Zakiryanov as President of the Federation has made great efforts that justice is done. From 2009 through Government Decision, champions and winners of the World Student Games equated to the winners of the Asian Games.

During 6th Asian University Sports Federation General Assembly Meeting 2010, Professor Kairat Zakiryanov was reelected as AUSF Auditor.

26th Summer Universiade, Shenzhen 2011

Shenzhen, China will host the 26th Summer Universiade during August 12 to 23, 2011. The Universiade Shenzhen 2011 will have 24 disciplines and 302 competition events. About 13,000 athletes from almost 180 countries and regions are expected to participate. An international sporting event of this scope has required enormous preparation, and Shenzhen has now entered the final sprint in the preparations.

Shenzhen is well suited for the responsibilities of hosting the Universiade. As China's first "Special Economic Zone", the city began its urban development in 1980, and played a crucial role in the Reform and Opening of China. In just 30 years, Shenzhen has been transformed from a small, border town into a modern, dynamic and international city, becoming a vital link between the mainland of China and Hong Kong, and between China and the world.

How has Shenzhen prepared for the 26th Summer Universiade? This review will highlight the efforts to develop human resources and to build the venues for the Universiade.

Organizational Structure for Universiade Shenzhen 2011

With the approval of the State Council, China's highest executive office, the Organizing Committee for the 26th Summer Universiade, Shenzhen was established, and the First Plenary Meeting of the Shenzhen Universiade Organizing Committee was held on June 13, 2010. In attendance were leaders from the Ministry of Education, the General Administration of Sport of China, and the Governments of Guangdong Province and Shenzhen Municipality; as well as representatives from the 27 component units of the Organizing Committee. The meeting focused on issues requiring support from the Central Government and the Guangdong Provincial Government.

A three-level organizational structure has been established for Universiade Shenzhen 2011. The structure includes a national-level organization, the Organizing Committee for the 26th Summer Universiade, Shenzhen; a provincial / city-level organization, the Executive Board of the OC for the Universiade Shenzhen; and the organization for daily operations, the Executive Office of the OC for the Universiade Shenzhen.

Human Resources for Universiade Shenzhen 2011

The Executive Office has overseen the daily preparations for Universiade Shenzhen 2011. The Executive Office has established all 20 departments required during Games-time. As of November 2010, about 400 staff members were working full-time for the Executive Office. The staff is expected to increase to about 600 by mid 2011. Many key staff members have been seconded from the Shenzhen Municipal Government, and the Executive Office has continued to use all opportunities to attract talented professionals. For example, the Executive Office recruited at the 2010 Conference on International Exchange of Professionals, held in Shenzhen on October 29, 2010.

The Universiade requires staff members with many different kinds of expertise. Competition managers and security officers would be two examples of the staff required. The 25 competition managers responsible for the 24 disciplines of the 26th Summer Universiade Shenzhen have been hired, and they have already begun to work. They have rich experience with the organization of international sporting events. Two-thirds of the managers worked for the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games, and others have worked for the Guangzhou 2010 Asian Games. The managers will have major responsibility for coordinating the operations of the competitions and managing the venues where the competitions will be held. In cooperation with the FISU Technical Committee, the managers are developing the detailed timetable for the 302 events of the 26th Summer Universiade Shenzhen.

A well-trained security staff is essential for the safety of the Universiade. During Games-time, different levels of security zones, as well as security buffer zones and routes, will be established in the venues and at the Universiade Village, in accordance with the FISU's requirements. All people entering the Universiade Village and the venues must undergo strict security checks. The number of security officers required for a particular event will vary, depending on such factors as the number of spectators, the size of the delegations, and the presence of VIPs. Under the leadership of a team of security officers from the Guangdong Provincial Government and the Shenzhen Municipal Government, the Executive Office has formed venue security teams and carried out various kinds of security training. Security policies will reflect the conditions of China and international practices, and the security teams will learn from the experiences of major international events that have recently been held in China, such as the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games, the Expo 2010 Shanghai China, and the Guangzhou 2010 Asian Games.

In addition to full-time, paid staff, international sporting events such as the Universiade need the support of many volunteers. At the one-year countdown celebration for the 26th Summer Universiade, the Shenzhen Municipal Party Committee and the Shenzhen Municipal Government jointly issued a directive urging residents to get involved with and serve the Universiade. As of November 2010, about 60,000 residents had signed up to be volunteers for the Universiade. The Executive Office has recruited and trained two important groups of volunteers for events and has released the slogan, the symbol, and the theme song for the volunteers, receiving high praise from the public.

To help residents communicate with foreign visitors, Shenzhen has launched “The People of Shenzhen Speak Foreign Languages” movement. In addition, the Executive Office has organized training programs to improve the English of staff members. The courses range from classes in basic English conversation to advanced training in writing and editing English.

Physical Resources for Universiade Shenzhen 2011:

Construction of New Venues and Renovation of Existing Venues

The China has long dazzled the world with its architectural achievements. The ancient Chinese constructed the world-famous Great Wall to defend and unite China. The Ming and Qing Dynasties built a spectacular imperial palace in central Beijing, the “Forbidden City”, which is now open for the people of the world to enjoy. The Beijing 2008 Olympic Games created iconic sports venues, such as the “Bird’s Nest” and the “Water Cube”.

The Shenzhen Universiade will involve 24 disciplines and 302 events. To prepare for the Games, 22 new venues will be constructed, and 36 existing venues will be renovated. In addition, a total of 10 temporary venues will be built for sports such as beach volleyball, open-water swimming, mountain cycling, and the road walk. All the construction and renovation of the venues will be basically completed by the end of 2010, in accordance with the requirements for the preparations.

Shenzhen has thus undertaken a mammoth construction project for the Universiade and spent a lot of money on venues. The city faces the important question of how to guarantee a payback on the investments. The Government has thus developed detailed plans for the operation and utilization of the venues after the Shenzhen Universiade.

Universiade Village

A major new venue is the Universiade Village, the most important non-competition venue. During the Games, the Village will provide accommodations, as well as catering and transport services, for the athletes and team officials. Shenzhen does not need to worry about the utilization of the Village after the Games. The Universiade Village was built not only for the 26th Summer Universiade but also for the Shenzhen Institute of Information Technology. The apartment buildings in the Village were thus constructed according to the standards for a student dormitory. After the Games, Shenzhen

Institute of Information Technology will use the facilities, and the apartments for athletes and officials will become dormitories for students.

The Universiade Village has a total land area of 492,000 square meters, and a total floor area of 478,000 square meters. During Games-time, the Village will be divided into four major zones: the Residential Zone, the International Zone, the Operations Zone, and the Logistics Zone. The Residential Zone has five apartment buildings and a total of 4,997 rooms, which will be used for the athletes and team officials. The Village also has one back-up apartment building with a total of 231 rooms. After the Games, this particular apartment building will be used as a faculty dormitory at the university.

The preparations for the Universiade Village do not merely entail the construction of the facilities. The Organizing Committee must guarantee that the athletes and officials have a comfortable, peaceful, and enjoyable stay in Shenzhen. The Executive Office is now developing the preliminary plan for the room allocations in the residential area of the Village. The plan has been based on suggestions from FISU. In addition, the Executive Office examined the accommodation plans for the Summer Universiades held in Bangkok and Belgrade and the Winter Universiade in Harbin; and did a statistical analysis of the languages, cultures, politics, and religious beliefs of the countries and regions that are likely to participate.

The Executive Office must pay attention to the requirements of particular athletes and client groups. For example, very tall athletes tend to participate in some sports such as volleyball, basketball, water polo and swimming, and these tall athletes have special requirements in accommodations. It is estimated that meals for Muslims will account for about 20 percent of the catering. To prepare for the dietary requirements of Muslim participants in the 26th Summer Universiade, a delegation from the Shenzhen Municipal Government and the Executive Office visited Ningxia Hui Autonomous Region, a predominantly Muslim area of China, during October 14 to 19, 2010. The delegation discussed characteristics of halal catering, such as the supply of raw materials, design of menus, division of food service areas, and training of food-service staff. The delegation also met with enterprises that can supply halal food, and consulted with the Ningxia Institute of Commerce and Technology, which advised the Beijing 2008 Olympic Games, the Guangzhou 2010 Asian Games, and other international events held in China about halal catering.

New Venues

As of November 2010, Shenzhen was in the final stages of completing the 22 new, world-class venues for the Universiade. The basic design concepts have been originality and a humanistic orientation. The new venues are “green”; they have utilized the most advanced technologies to save energy and to protect the environment, such as solar photo-voltaic technology, energy-saving lighting, and the latest techniques to recycle water.

The Universiade Center and the Shenzhen Bay Sports Center, two important new venues for the Games, will likely become iconic landmarks of Shenzhen.

Universiade Center— “Three Crystal Rocks”

The Universiade Center will be the main competition venue for the 26th Summer Universiade. After the Games, this multi-functional Universiade Center will bring many sports events to Shenzhen, and enable more residents to get involved with sports and physical training. The Universiade Center consists of three main venues:

- The Stadium, with 60,000 seats, will be the venue for the Opening Ceremony and the athletics events of the Universiade. It can also host world-class football matches, and large-scale concerts.
- The Natatorium, with 3,000 seats, can host world-class swimming and water polo events.
- The Gymnasium, with 18,000 seats, will be the venue for the Universiade’s basketball games.

The special structure of the Gymnasium should be noted. The floor of Gymnasium is a combined structure that includes an ice-skating rink and movable floor boards. (The skating rink is great news for the people of Shenzhen, who want more opportunities to watch and practice ice sports. Shenzhen, after all, is located in the sub-tropical zone, and its average annual temperature is 22.3 degrees Celsius.) The skating rink can be dismantled relatively quickly, and the flooring can be changed into that used for other sports events. Because of this special feature, the venue can host indoor competitions for 16 different sports, including gymnastics, indoor football, tennis, volleyball, basketball, table tennis, badminton, snooker, fencing, weightlifting, wrestling, judo, boxing, handball, and world-class basketball and NBA games, as well as ice sports such as ice hockey, and short-track speed skating. In addition, the venue can host large-scale variety shows, exhibitions, and concerts. The Gymnasium is thus a cutting-edge, multi-functional venue.

Traditional Chinese notions about mountains, water and rocks inspired the design of the Universiade Center. The “mountain” is Tongguling Mountain near the Center. “Water” is represented by the artificial lake that has been created to link the three main venues of the Center. The three “rocks” refer to the unique crystal-rock appearance of the Stadium, the Gymnasium, and the Natatorium. The design has thus successfully created a beautiful landscape of water near a mountain, with rocks in water. The three distinctive “Crystal Rocks” in the lake, glowing and translucent, will become magnificent works of art that the Universiade has given Shenzhen.

Shenzhen Bay Sports Center— The “Spring Cocoon”

The Shenzhen Bay Sports Center has been built in Shenzhen’s Nanshan Center District, near the Hong Kong-Shenzhen Western Corridor Bridge. During the Universiade, the Center will host the Closing Ceremony, and table tennis and football matches. With its unique shape, resembling a Spring Cocoon, the Shenzhen Bay Sports Center will become an architectural landmark of Shenzhen.

The Shenzhen Bay Sports Center combines and integrates three major sports venues:

- The Stadium, with 20,000 seats, can host world-class football and athletics events, as well as large-scale concerts.
- The Gymnasium, with 10,000 permanent and 3,000 movable seats, can host world-class basketball games, as well as large-scale concerts and exhibitions.
- The Natatorium, with 500 permanent and 1,500 movable seats, can host world class individual-level swimming events.

The basic design concept for the “Spring Cocoon” was to create a huge, integrated complex for both sports and commerce. Each of the sports venues incorporates different functional areas, including recreational areas and commercial areas. For example, Dashu Square, located in the central part of the Shenzhen Bay Sports Center, will be open to the public and decorated with special lighting. The Square will have various functions, and the surrounding areas will have facilities for shopping, dining, and entertainment. A sports presentation area will be set up so that the public can learn more about the events, buy sports products, and interact with famous athletes and other celebrities. The Square will certainly become one of Shenzhen's most frequently used public spaces.

The "Spring Cocoon" will be a new type of venue offering a combination of competition sports and sports for all, sports and cultural entertainment, and sports and commerce. The "Spring Cocoon" should have great appeal to the public and provide opportunities for a wide range of sporting and recreational activities.

Renovation of Existing Venues

Thirty-six existing sports venues in Shenzhen will be renovated and used for the 26th Summer Universiade. The goal of the renovations has been to create a network of sports venues throughout Shenzhen and to make sports and physical exercise a part of everyday life. Sports events will be upgraded and become experiences in which residents can actively participate. Priority has been given to the renovation of the facilities for competitions and the amenities for spectators and users. Modern, comfortable and comprehensive facilities are essential for the quality of the event and the size of the audience—in other words, for the revenue that a sports event can generate for the city. Shenzhen Gymnasium and Longgang Sport Center provide prominent examples of the renovations being completed for the Universiade.

Shenzhen Gymnasium

Although Shenzhen Gymnasium is more than 25 years old, the basic structure remains in good condition, and the gymnasium has great space and flexible functional areas. The renovations have involved the installation of big screens, air conditioners, video and audio booths, improved lighting, broadcasting equipment and new flooring. All the equipment and facilities within the Gymnasium will be upgraded to meet standards for international, world-class sporting events. After the renovations, Shenzhen Gymnasium will be able to host the preliminary and final volleyball matches of the Universiade. In the future, Shenzhen Gymnasium can host international competitions for sports such as basketball, table tennis, badminton, and gymnastics.

The renovations of Shenzhen Gymnasium will make the venue more comfortable and enjoyable for users. The original staircases and passageways have been renovated, and the lavatories and catering areas have been upgraded. Moreover, ramps, special elevators, and accessible seating have been installed for people with a disability.

Longgang Sport Center

The Longgang Sport Center, which opened in 2004, has been renovated for basketball, tennis and cycling competitions of the 26th Summer Universiade. During the renovations of the Center, an outdoor basketball court, a swimming pool, and gyms for table tennis and badminton have also been built. Local residents will be able to use these new facilities after the Universiade. In addition, "green routes" on the slopes around Longgang Sports Center have been developed for recreational sports such as cycling, jogging, hiking, and walking. The Center will thus promote active participation in sports, thereby increasing its popularity and influence.

Test Events

Shenzhen will host a series of "test events" to fine-tune the preparations for the 26th Summer Universiade. The test events will enable the Executive Office to detect glitches or shortcomings in the preparations and to correct any possible problems before the Games.

The first test event was the 8th World University Archery Championship, which was held in Shenzhen from September 23 to 26, 2010. About 200 athletes from 26 countries and regions gathered in Shenzhen and achieved impressive records. During the Championship, the Executive Office was able to test the arrangements for a wide range of services and operations, including security, transport, catering, volunteer services, sports presentations, accreditation, arrivals and departures, and the info system. The results met the approval of FISU officials, as well as the athletes, who expressed their fervent desire to participate in the 26th Summer Universiade, Shenzhen.

During April to July, 2011, the Executive Office will host test events for athletics, chess, sport shooting, aerobics, weightlifting, cycling, sailing, table tennis, and women's football. In addition, trial operations will be arranged for the other sports on the program of the 26th Summer Universiade (As of November 2010, the detailed schedules for these test events are being developed). The test events will enable the Executive Office to evaluate the coordination of its various departments, to check the equipment and facilities in the venues, and to evaluate a wide variety of services, including transport and security. The test events will also provide excellent on-the-job training and experience for staff members.

Shenzhen is ready for the 26th Summer Universiade. The city is determined to host a "more spectacular, more successful, and more impressive" Universiade. The Government and people of Shenzhen, as well as all the staff members and volunteers of the Organizing Committee, look forward to welcoming everyone to the 26th Summer Universiade Shenzhen in August 2011.

At the 2010 Commonwealth Games in Delhi, the host country, India, landed second in the medal table ahead of England and behind Australia. However, both England's and Australia's university students marked their presence at the event winning a truckload of medals.

Australia's university students showed their depth of talent at the Games in Delhi, bringing home a number of medals in their specialist events. At least 27 of the 177 medals won at the Games were won by students. Over 80 of the athletes and officials in the 600 strong Australian Commonwealth Games contingent have been, or currently are attending university in Australia while training and competing in their sport at an elite level, and selections are currently underway for the 2011 World University Summer Games to be held in Shenzhen, China.

Kazan will host two World University Championships in 2012. These competitions will also serve as test events as Kazan will organize the Summer Universiade in 2013 (these two sports will be part of the Universiade optional program). Long Track Speed Skating will be organized in Zakopane for the first time as a WUC. The city of Zakopane, which hosted the Winter Universiade twice (1993 & 2001), will be the perfect place for this first edition.

At its meeting in Brussels, the EC members also attributed the 2014 FISU Forum to Gwangju, host city of the 2015 Summer Universiade.

1st City Events Conference

From November 17th to 19th, 2010 FISU together with GL-Events hosted the first edition of the City Events Conference. City Events is the first international conference that brings together cities interested in hosting international sporting competitions as well as international and continental sports organizations looking for ambitious hosts for their events. This year's conference theme 'From Sport Event to Citywide Experience' aimed at strengthening the bond among all these stakeholders to create events that are much more than just sporting competitions, but which are for the benefit of all.

Speakers at the opening ceremony were Jacques Danger, co-founder of City Events, the Alderman of Sports of the city of Brussels Mr. Bertin Mampaka and FISU President George E. Killian. During these 3 days, international sports events were sifted through by prestigious speakers from: X-Games, Volvo Ocean Race, FISU Universiades, Winter Olympic Games, IAAF World Championships, FIBA World Championships, FIS World Championships and cities like Brussels, Lausanne, Amsterdam, Istanbul, Vancouver, Kazan, Edmonton, Are and Berlin.

As the year 2010 comes to an end, the FISU Family is already gearing up for its first big event in 2011: the 25th Winter Universiade in Erzurum, which is entering its last months of preparations.

ODUPA

Executive Committee Meeting

From March 3rd to 7th, ODUPA held its Executive Committee Meeting in Lima, Peru. The participating members were welcomed by the Executive Board of FEDUP, the Peruvian University Sport Federation.

During the first day of the meeting, the Minister of Sport of Peru, Mr. Arturo Woodman attended the event. Five work sessions took place during the EC meeting in which development projects were discussed: sporting, academic and communications events. Working committees were defined to elaborate on the protocols of different topics and ODUPA representatives were appointed to develop the different activities in the planned events for 2010. Most importantly and as first tangible result of the development program "OIKOS", the ODUPA EC approved the mission of the organization, i.e. "to contribute from the American University community to develop citizens of the world through sport".

The EC meeting of ODUPA came to an end on March 7th. The ODUPA board was grateful to FEDUP.

ODUPA on Line

ODUPA launched its website www.odupa.org, where the information related to Panamerican events can be found.

Dany Cheung Liang, ODUPA's webdeveloper said that with only one week of operation, they received more than 3,000 visitors all over the world. Natasha Campos, ODUPA's journalist commented that one of the reasons was that many people wanted to access the information about all the events that ODUPA already organized and the upcoming events such as the Panamerican Cross Country Championship, Basketball, Judo and the ODUCC Games.

"I would like to give my congratulations to the group that made this possible" said ODUPA's president Julio Jakob. "This is a great achievement because it will reduce the distance between us" added FISU Vice-President Luciano Cabral.

"ODUPA'S website was definitely a dream come true", commented Rosaura Mendez ODUPA's Treasurer who had the initiative of this project.

Hugo Viglietti, member of the Uruguay's University League, said that this venture has two key points, the first was the beginning and the second was its continuity. "The last one is a challenge that has to be supported with all Panamerican community input" said Viglietti.

Guno Rudge, Executive Secretary of ODUCC extended his congratulations to the website creators. "This will help the growth of university sports on our continent" finished Monserrat Jimenez, Executive Secretary of COSUD.

As the counterpart of ODUPA, we expect more the English version of its website.
